

Traitor Dachshund®

By the time the sun rose on the last morning of the race, the team had charged into the lead. As the dogs sprinted into the final stretch, Jasper saw that they were giving it all they had. But it wasn't enough. Another sled pulled alongside them.

These images are exclusively provided by Traitor Dachshund for review purposes only. No portion of these images may be reproduced—mechanically, electronically, or by any other means, including photocopying—without permission of the publisher.